

Dear Danish Friends of UEGW,

Join the 12,000 physicians, researchers and academics from around the world and learn about current research results in the field of gastroenterology and hepatology.

Scientific Programme Highlights

UEGW 2011 will feature the latest advances in clinical management, translational and basic science and the best original research in GI and liver disease. UEGW's popular clinical symposia will be highly interactive with key pad voting, debates, tandem talks, case based management sessions and questioning through text messaging. Highlights will include personalised medicine, live endoscopy, inflammatory bowel disease, GI and liver oncology, viral hepatitis, nutrition and obesity.

Live Endoscopy

Top international experts will yet again demonstrate cutting-edge techniques during live endoscopy sessions in the Postgraduate Programme as well as the main Scientific Programme of UEGW 2011.

Today's science, tomorrow's medicine

The Stockholm UEGW is proud to host an international two-day symposium on the role of gut bacteria in health and chronic GI diseases, co-organised and hosted by Joel Doré, Séverine Vermeire and Jean-Frédéric Colombel. This will feature the best microbial scientists from around the world, meeting to discuss the current state of the art in bacterial research in the digestive tract.

Postgraduate Teaching Programme

The UEGW Postgraduate Course is growing in prestige and size year on year. We offer a full two-day postgraduate programme incorporating gastroenterology, hepatology, endoscopy, surgery, imaging and other diagnostic modalities.
